BRITISH KEEP INVADERS AT SPITSBERGEN

Part of Force Stays at Arctic Islands After Mines Are Seized.

CUT OFF GERMAN SUPPLY

Report Battle Front Stretches Now From Far North To Tropical Tobruk.

(By United Press)

LONDON—British occupation forces are remaining in the arctic islands of Spitsbergen, it was indicated officially today in comment on a swift raid that eliminated the possibility of Germany receiving coal from the strategic islands.

Indications that some of the occupation forces, including Canadians and Norwegians, were remaining was given in an official statement which said the allied front now stretches in an immense crescent from Spitsbergen to the North African coastal base of Tobruk. The statement was not clarified.

There had been no official intimation that all the British, Canadian and Norwegian forces which raided the islands in the greatest secrecy had returned, and on the other hand there were strong implications that only a part of them had been withdrawn.

When authoritative military and other quarters were asked to clear up the confusion, they said that great pains had been taken to leave open the question whether troops remained or had all returned.

"The Germans would like to know," a spokesman commented.

In sending an expeditionary force to the Spitsbergen group, comprising four main islands and several small ones, the British were assumed to have concentrated on west Spitsbergen, the largest of the group, which is a valuable source of coal for Norway, which owns the islands, and for Germany which occupies Norway.

A war office communique which gave the first news of the British expedition said:

"For various purposes it was recently decided to send a military force to the Arctic. In course of the operations, which were carried out without enemy inter-

Westinghouse Given $3,173,975 U. S. Order for Army Binoculars

On Defense Job

Clifford G. Hillier, who has been associated with Westinghouse since 1922, has been shifted from the sales department to head the company's defense production, it was announced today as the company revealed that a $3,173,975 order for binoculars had been placed with it by the war department in Washington.

Award to Help Take up 'Slack'

Expect Contract To Alleviate Job Problem Anticipated Because Of Curb On Refrigerators.

A $3,173,975 order for binoculars for the United States army—Mansfield's largest defense order to date—was held today by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

C. G. Hillier, in charge of defense products at the Mansfield plant, announced the order simultaneously with a statement from the war department in Washington which said the contract was designed "to take up the slack in employment caused by priority ratings forcing manufacturers of civilian commodities to curtail production."

Actual manufacture of binoculars was expected to be held up "several months," company officials said, pending the arrival and installation of necessary machine tool equipment.

"Much of this equipment has already been ordered, however," Hillier said, "and the government has given us good priority ratings on both machines and materials for the order."

Seven hundred men will be required to fill the contract when full production on the order gets under way.

Meanwhile, the company has already completed its layout for the binoculars department and workmen today began equipping the entire top floor of the new warehouse building on East Fourth street for production of the glasses.

Machines on the 50,000 square feet of floor space will be used for aluminum and special steel fabrication, for lining, testing and assembly.

Lenses and leather carrying cases will be obtained under subcontracts, Hillier said, and sheet metal and die casting work will be done at the Westinghouse plant in East Springfield, Mass.

The completed product is expected to be turned out from the local plant at the rate of 10,000 binoculars a month.

Further defense orders are anticipated by company officials.

"We have been seeking defense contracts for nearly a year," Hillier said. "In fact, in other Westinghouse plants over half of our total business—over $250,000,000—is defense work."

This is the first defense order to be received by the Mansfield plant, but officials based their anticipation of additional orders on two paragraphs in the war depart-

Mansfield First Ohio City Chosen For Federal Survey To Curb Unemployment.

Mansfield was named today as one of five midwestern cities where the federal government will conduct immediate surveys to determine whether factory workers and machines threatened with idleness by inability to get materials for civilian goods could be converted to defense production.

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, announced in Washington that the surveys would be undertaken immediately in centers needing materials for producing refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, automobiles, slide fasteners, and other household appliances. Mansfield is the first city in Ohio chosen for the survey.

The OPM has issued an order which may curb the production

CLOSE CALL

School Bus Stalls on Railroad Crossing, Hit By Train.

XENIA—(AP)—Forty children scrambled out of a stalled school bus today seconds before the front end was grazed by a passenger train west of here near Alpha.

The only casualty was one boy who hurt his chin getting through a door.

A headlight was broken and one front tire flattened by the train as it brushed past the bus, which stalled after being stopped too close to the crossing tracks.

Carlton Coren, driving the children to Beaver Creek high school, barely had time to open the front and rear emergency doors before the accident occurred.

U. S.-Made Plane Beats U-Boat

Severely damaged by bombs dropped by an American-made plane of the Royal Air Force, this German submarine is shown coming to the surface to surrender to the British in the Atlantic. The picture was released by London with the story of unprecedented capture of the German U-boat, which was towed to an English harbor. The capture was unique in all naval history. White shirt on the conning tower indicates the surrender. The German crew stands around the tower awaiting transfer to a British ship.

Churchill Warns of New Hitler Blows In Atlantic

Tells Commons Nazis May Soon Come to Close Quarters With U. S. As He Calls For Greater Help.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Churchill in a sweeping review of the war today expressed the wish for "greater help" from the American navy and warned that Adolf Hitler may come to "close quarters" with the United States and turn the whole Atlantic into one vast war zone.

Addressing the house of commons, assembled for the first time since Aug. 6, Churchill declared bluntly that the battle of the Atlantic was not yet won.

An implication that both Britain and the United States were ready for Atlantic eventualities was in his statement that "strong British and United States forces" in Iceland now include "some very considerable United States and British naval and air forces."

The prime minister gave the British people a somewhat cheering picture of the battle of the seas, with a sudden increase in British successes in the past two months, but he made it plain that there was a long fight ahead.

Churchill told a cheering house: "The Germans are much hampered on the American part of the Atlantic by fear of trouble with the powerful American naval forces which ceaselessly patrol the approaches to the western hemisphere. This has been a help to us but I wish it might be a greater help.

"The enemy's tactics may change. No doubt Hitler would rather finish off Russia and Britain before coming to close quarters with the United States.

"Hitler has, however, also the greatest possible need to pre-

The sanitarium, located close to the schools, is claimed by towns-people to be unsanitary.

NYE ATTACKS FILM INDUSTRY

Charges Movies Issuing War Propaganda, Asks For Investigation.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Sen. Nye (R) N. D., testifying before a senate commerce sub-committee in a crowd-packed room today, charged the movie industry with issuing war propaganda films and demanded a sweeping investigation to determine whether they are fostered by British agents and the American government.

As the hearing got under way, a request by Wendell L. Willkie, counsel for the movie industry, that he be permitted to cross-examine witnesses was firmly rejected by a majority of the committee.

The hearing, based technically upon a resolution of Nye and Sen. Bennett Clark (D) Mo., to

Cargo Vessel Sent Down Off Iceland Coast

American Warships Pick Up Three of Crew; Loss of American Vessel In Red Sea Also Reported With All Aboard Saved.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The state department today announced that the American-operated steamship S. S. Sessa was sunk by a torpedo about 300 miles southwest of Iceland on Aug. 17.

American warships have picked up three survivors of the crew of the vessel. Twenty-four members, including an American citizen, are unreported and "presumed lost."

The Sessa is a former Danish vessel taken over by the United States government. It was being operated by a New York steamship company under Panama registry.

The department's announcement came less than 24 hours after disclosure that an unidentified bomber had sunk another American vessel, the Steel Seafarer, a freighter, in the Red sea, with all hands rescued.

Both incidents added to the mounting tension between this nation and Germany despite the fact that identity of neither attacker has yet been established.

The state department said the Sessa was carrying food and other cargo of a non-military character.

The three surviving members of the crew were picked up by an American warship last Saturday morning.

The official announcement by the state department concerning this latest sinking of an American-operated ship said:

"The state department has been informed by the navy department that on Saturday morning, Sept. 6, the navy picked up three surviving members of the crew of the S. S. Sessa about 300 miles southwest of Iceland.

"Twenty-four members of the crew are unreported and presumed lost.

"The state department is informed that the suvivors stated that the ship had been sunk by a torpedo on Aug. 17.

"There was one American citizen member of the crew. His name is lacking and he is not one of the survivors. Names of the three survivors have not been furnished to the department of state.

"The Sessa was a former Danish vessel which was acquired from the Danish government under authority of the recent law permitting the taking over of idle foreign flag ships in American waters.

"The vessel was under Panama registry and was transporting supplies for the government of Iceland and owned by that government.

"The cargo consisted of foodstuffs, cereals, lumber and other general cargo and did not include arms, ammunition or implements of war."

It was learned that the vessel was operated by a New York shipping concern, although flying the

WINTER NEAR

Snowstorm Sweeps Through Two Western States.

DENVER—(AP)—Rocky Mountain westerners poked more fuel into their furnaces today and went to work in overcoats after winter made a surprise feint from Canada to Colorado.

Additional coal trucks were called for and heating companies sent men scurrying to thousands of homes to turn on oil and gas burners.

Wayfarers in two states encountered harrowing experiences when a widespread snowstorm overtook them and temperatures dropped near or below freezing.

Several mountain passes were closed by the snow, which ranged to a foot in depth in Wyoming, but were reopened today in most cases. The lowest city temperature, 29 degrees, was reported from two-mile high Leadville, Colo. At the summit of Pikes Peak it was nine above zero.

ference, a landing was effected in Spitsbergen for a mixed Canadian, British and Norwegian force under Canadian command.

"The main purpose of the landing was to prevent the enemy from utilizing for their own war purposes Spitsbergen with its rich coal mines.

"This source of fuel has now been denied the Germans.

"The immediate result of the Spitsbergen landing is that a considerable number of Norwegian miners and their families have now arrived in Britain to play a part in the allied war effort here. Most of them will join the Norwegian forces or the Norwegian merchant marine."

It was at once noted that the mention that Germany had been denied the use of the coal might mean either that the British had destroyed or removed existing stocks and blocked the shafts so that Germany could not get to the coal.

Soviet Armies Claim New Victories

MOSCOW — (AP) — The Soviet armies of the central front today were pursuing the broken remnants of a German force of 100,000 men back westward toward Smolensk, having thrust the Nazis back 16 miles in two days and recaptured 150 square miles of territory and 50 villages in a gigantic continuing battle, official dispatches reported.

A communique reported that within ten days the Rumanians besieging Odessa have left more than 20,000 dead men in the approaches to that Black sea port as the Red navy leads a daily sortie against the Germans' allies.

It was the big counter-thrust on the central front, however, that shown as the rosiest star on the Soviet horizon.

A government communique said eight Nazi divisions were cut to pieces in a fierce counter-offensive which began 26 days ago and reached its climax with recapture of the railway town of Yelna, 200 miles southwest of Moscow and 40 miles east of Smolensk.

Claim Leningrad Hammered By Planes

BERLIN — (AP) — Leningrad, cut off from all land connection with the rest of Russia, is being hammered day and night by Nazi Stukas and battle planes, the German high command reported today.

A communique from the fuehrer's headquarters said Leningrad and its 3,200,000 population with extensive defending forces was cut off when "speed divisions of the German army, excellently supported by air force combat units, reached the Neva on a broad front east of Leningrad."

Then a single German infantry regiment stormed across the Neva river and took Schluesselburg, 21 miles east of Leningrad, the communique said.

Yesterday and last night, it was said, the German air force concentrated on Leningrad's teeming "armament and supply facilities," and also directed a night raid on Moscow.

RAF Bombers Pound Western Germany

LONDON — (U.P.) — British long range bombing planes spread destruction and death through western Germany during the night after their great Sunday night raid on Berlin.

Nearly 100 planes bombed Cassel, in West Central Germany, alone, it was said authoritatively. It was added that the great majority of planes reached their objectives and that not a single plane was lost.

At Cassel, the British planes centered on the great Henschel locomotive workshops which, an informant said, "are of particular importance now in view of the Russian campaign" and the necessity for long-haul supply routes.

Accepts Anglo-Soviet Peace Terms

TEHRAN, Iran — (U.P.) — The Iranian parliament, by a rising vote, today accepted the Anglo-Soviet terms for settlement of Iran affair.

(London revealed today that the terms of settlement include the surrender of all German and Italian Nationals to the custody of Great Britain and Russia, the expulsion of German and Italian diplomats, Anglo-Russion control and maintenance of all waterways and irrigation projects from Basra to the Caspian sea and other measures for guaranteeing the Anglo-Soviet position in Iran.

(The London statement said that the settlement not only nullified German intrigues in Iran but will safeguard the "focal point" of the supply route by which American aid will flow to Russia.)

Italy Admits Loss of Steamship Esperia

ROME — (INS) — The Italian military high command today admitted that a British submarine sank the 11,398-ton steamship Esperia in the central Mediterranean.

(The British in announcing on September 6 the sinking of the Esperia said it was being used as a troop transport.)

The Italians also revealed that R.A.F. planes on two successive nights bombed the important Sicilian city of Palermo.

Nazis Admit Loss of Training Ship

BERLIN — (INS) — Loss of the German artillery training ship Bremse was announced by the German high command today.

A war communique said the 1,100 ton vessel was sunk in Norwegian waters in a clash with superior British naval forces while it was convoying a German supply ship.

According to the announcement, the Bremse went down in the waters off northern Norway.

determine whether an investigation should be recommended, got under way in a seething atmosphere with the crowd anxiously awaiting a quarrel.

Sen. Worth Clark (D) Ida., chairman of the sub-committee, however, blocked controversy by announcing that the sub-committee has full legal authority in rejecting Willkie's proposal.

Legality of the hearings—which Willkie charged amounted to an investigation— was assailed by him. He declared that an investigation would invade the rights of free speech as guaranteed by the constitution.

In a telegram, the screen actors' guild commended Willkie for accepting leadership in the movie industry's battle against charges of war propaganda.

"The issue raised by the senate inquiry emphasized the importance of unified Americanism, such as that you recently have personified by supporting the emergency policies of the president," the wire read. "Issues of freedom of speech and expression are of vital importance to the screen actors' guild."

Willkie's request for the right to cross-examine witnesses was made in a formal letter. Sen. McFarland (D) Ariz., was the lone subcommittee member supporting his stand. Senators Tobey (R) N. H., and Brooks (R) Ill., made no objection to Clark's ruling.

"We will follow the estblished methods of hearings observed for 100 years," said Chairman Clark.

"I am sure Mr. Willkie will understand in the nature of things we cannot undertake to pass on proprieties of questions. We would have to take a vote on each one.

"The committee welcomes counsel and will be as courteous and decent as we can, within limits."

Willkie smiled and the crowd tittered at this conversation.

As Sen. Nye rose, Clark said that every witness would be sworn. McFarland said no U. S. senator should be requested to take an oath.

"I would ask that I be sworn," said Nye.

Contending that the committee is acting without authority, Willkie nevertheless declared that the industry is ready to lay its cards on the table.

The picture makers, he said, "make no pretense of friendliness to Nazi Germany nor to the objectives and goals of this ruthless dictatorship" and that the industry pleads guilty to cooperating with the government in promoting national defense. He charged that the probe threatens freedom of speech.

vent precious munition supplies now streaming across the Atlantic in pursuance of the policy of the United States government from reaching our shores.

"Should he do so the area of danger zones will again become ocean-wide. Meanwhile let us hear no vain talk of the battle of the Atlantic having been won."

Churchill asserted that he and President Roosevelt reached "highly important decisions" in their historic Atlantic conference regarding help for Russia and "the policy to be pursued" to check Japan and prevent spread of war to the Pacific.

He said that Britain must be prepared for "definite reductions" in military supplies from the United States so that they now can go to Russia; he praised Russian resistance as "magnificent" and said that Germany now is "certain of having to maintain armies through the Russian winter from the Arctic to the Black sea.

The prime minister announced that "powerful" British reinforcements have reached Egypt and said he was confident "we shall be able to defend Egypt successfully from a German invasion across the western desert."

"It is no time for boasting, but there is this: A year ago our position looked forlorn and very nigh desperate. Today we say aloud, we are still master of our fate and captain of our soul."

of electrical equipment by the Mansfield plant of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and Tappan Stove company as much as 50 per cent.

The government order would cut production in these lines to conserve materials for the national defense program.

Where factories can be adapted to defense production, the defense contract service will attempt to allocate suitable awards, McNutt said. If this is not possible, government employment services will try to place workers in defense plants or train them for other jobs.

Managers of Mansfield plants, which might be affected by the order, believe they could easily be changed over for the production of defense materials. Westinghouse and the other companies are seeking government contracts for work in case refrigerator and electric range production is cut.

Also to be surveyed to determine whether their plants could be adapted for defense work will be Meadville, Pa.; Evansville, Ind.; Quincy, Ill.; and Newton, Iowa.

In addition to contracts to the larger industries which might be affected by a curtailment order, government agencies are putting on pressure to speed the spreading of orders to small contractors in those areas to absorb workers displaced from non-essential industries.

Meadville is the home of the Talon Fastener company. Maytag washing machines are produced in Newton while Evansville turns out refrigerators for Sears-Roebuck and also has the Sunbeam Electric company plant.

ment announcement today which said:

"In this instance, Mansfield, Ohio, is a 'Westinghouse town.' It is estimated that of its employable persons, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company hires approximately 35 per cent. Company officials state that due to a shortage of vital materials for the manufacture of electrical refrigerators and kindred products, which is the standard product of this plant, considerable dislocation of employment is anticipated.

"To further relieve the anticipated unemployment situation in Mansfield, the War department is now negotiating with Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for additional contracts for defense items."

To date, company officials said, they have received no curtailment order and no layoffs have been necessary although shifts in the refrigerator cabinet assembly department were recently cut to four hours a day.

"However," Hillier explained, "curtailment is bound to come in the manufacture of civilian products and we are actively seeking more defense work as replacement."

Announcement of the $3,173,975 binocular order came at the same time that company officials revealed Hillier had been placed in charge of defense products. A native of Boston who had previously worked with Thomas A. Edison in the sale of motion picture machines to schools, and later as district manager of the Boston Edison company, Hillier joined Westinghouse in 1922.

He has made a study of a number of federal government projects and until his present promotion he was assistant to Reese Mills, assistant sales manager. He lives at 591 Summit street, Mansfield.

In connection with the production of binoculars Hillier plans to institute a vitamin A therapy program for workers desiring it.

Previously used by plant inspectors responsible for matching exact shades of white on the enameled surfaces of electric refrigerators and ranges, the therapy program, designed to increase visual efficiency, is expected to cut rejections on binoculars where metal fittings must be accurate within less than one-thousandth of an inch, Hillier said.

Conversion of the plant to make binoculars will require installation of approximately $300,000 worth of new equipment, according to company officials.

All the work of setting up new machinery will be done by men now employed at the Mansfield plant, Hillier said.

Panamanian flag. It was taken over by the U. S. maritime commission some weeks ago and was the first foreign-flag vessel acquired by the commission that is known to have been torpedoed and sunk at sea.

Word of the sinking of the Steel Seafarer was flashed to the state department last night by American Minister Alexander Kirk at Cairo, Egypt. He reported that the 5,718-ton merchantman, operated by the Isthmian line out of New York, was sent to the bottom Sunday by an aerial torpedo.

At noon today the maritime commission announced that the ship's master, Capt. J. D. Halliday, and all 35 crew members, had been rescued by passing boats. The commission, in contrast to the state department, placed the sinking at 11:30 p. m. Suez time, Friday, Sept. 5, or two days earlier.

A serious new crisis in relations between the United States and Germany is foreseen in official quarters in Washington if the plane eventually is identified as a German bomber.

News of the sinking of the Steel Seafarer came at a time when the United States government was actively considering the issuance of a strong warning to Germany in connection with the incident involving the American destroyer U.S.S. Greer in the North Atlantic.

Issuance of a general warning that this country will not tolerate further attacks on American shipping on the seas is now considered highly probable.

The warning may be issued by President Roosevelt in his address to the nation on Thursday night or it may take the form of an official statement by the government.

In either event the belief prevails that it will be the strongest warning yet made by this government concerning the determination of the United States to insist on freedom of the seas.

Sinking of the 20-year-old Steel Seafarer represents the first attack on an American vessel in the Red Sea since President Roosevelt lifted the ban which prevented American ships from entering that area.

German bombers have been carrying out frequent attacks on shipping in the Red Sea recently and Berlin has claimed that a number of British ships have been sunk. This led to the belief in Washington that the plane which attacked and sunk the Steel Seafarer probably was a German machine.

Warship Lands Survivors at Cairo

CAIRO — (UP) — The survivors of the American merchant steamer, Steel Seafarer, sunk in the Red Sea, were landed today on the western coast of the Gulf of Suez.

They had been picked up by a British warship. All aboard were saved.

Reliable British sources said a long-range German bomber operating from Greece sank the vessel.

The survivors were landed on the coast between the oil port of Hurghada and Dishet el Tabaa.

The Seafarer was attacked and sunk about midnight Sunday some 200 miles south of Suez.

The ship was the second attacked in the Red Sea by Axis aircraft. The first attack was made some days ago south of Suez but reliable sources said the bombed ship escaped untouched.

Germany Disclaims Knowledge of Sinking

BERLIN — (INS) — Germany today disclaimed knowledge of the sinking of the American freighter Steel Seafarer in the Red sea, but point out that those waters long ago were declared a war zone by Italy.

"If an American ship went down," a spokesman said, "it can only be said that this shows President Roosevelt's 'all clear' for the Red sea was sounded prematurely.

"All approaches to Suez are vital. Therefore shots will fly in the Red sea."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1941

The best that can be hoped, for the present, is that inflation will exercise reasonable self control.

Ideas change, and nowadays if there are a half dozen flies around you in a restaurant you know that it isn't much of a restaurant.

The Russians are not exactly luring the German army deep into Russia, but strategically that's what it amounts to, and Hitler may have some trouble in letting go of the Bear.

Gambling Must Not Be Seen

MAYBE, after all, Nevada's wide-open gambling—licensed and supervised—is better than Ohio's plan of outlawing all forms of commercial gambling and letting officials complacently ignore the law.

Nevada at least escapes the hypocrisy that has become associated with official attitude toward commercialized gambling in this state—and also frees officials of the suspicion of bribery and graft that is always associated with tolerance of known gambling operations in a city or county.

The humor of such a situation as recently developed in Mansfield is quite obvious, although it also has a more serious phase.

It appears that a well-patronized bingo game was operated in a large ground-floor room a couple of nights a week for several weeks, without police interference—then, abruptly, the game was stopped, by order of Mayor Locke, who announced as an administration policy, "We are going to stop all gambling that can be seen," adding, "After all, it is illegal."

Among all strange interpretations of law, and odd ideas of official responsibility, that particular announcement merits high place in ridiculousness.

Bingo, or any other form of gambling, it is thus made to appear, is unobjectionable—from the administration viewpoint—if it is conducted in a basement room, or anywhere above the ground floor. The ruling, it seems is that the public (and the police department) should be kept in ignorance of gambling operations and that this cannot be successfully done if hundreds of bingo addicts flock to a ground floor game and the exultant cries of "Bingo" rise ever and and anon to disturb the placidity of law-abiding passersby.

Without entering into gambling merits or demerits, it appears incontrovertible that ground-floor gambling, in plain public view, is no more illegal than the kind that is stealthily conducted in less conspicuous places—in fact the open and above board games may be less harmful in the community.

As generally understood, certain public officials are chosen to enforce laws, without being given the privilege of choice as to which laws shall be enforced and which are to be ignored.

If gambling is illegal in a ground floor room it is also illegal in a basement, on a second floor, or higher up in a building.

If local law enforcement officers do not perform the duties for which they are elected, or appointed, their dereliction becomes a proper matter for investigation by the county prosecuting attorney, a grand jury under direction of the common pleas court, or the state's attorney general.

Two words found in the dictionary are of special interest in this connection. They are "nonfeasance" and "misfeasance."

Saving Metals for War Use

SOMETHING new for America is to run into metal scarcities. This country has long gone on the assumption that iron, copper and other common metals were inexhaustible. Perhaps the only familiar basic resource that is really inexhaustible during the probable life of the country is coal. However that may be, the war makes startling inroads into common and readily accessible metals.

As a result, we hear no more talk of "steel roadways." For the present, at least, and for some time to come, we are not going to pour our iron into highways. Recent plans indicate that we shall probably abandon even the iron rods commonly used for binding concrete highways together. Instead of such reinforcement, several states are already planning to use merely thicker and stronger concrete, for which materials are plentiful.

Lightning, Natural and Artificial

EVERYBODY is interested in thunder storms. Dwellers in regions which have them view them personally, with favor or disfavor. Those who've never seen one want to know how the other half lives. A Westinghouse expert has been making artificial lightning—just for fun, as it were, and to find out things people didn't know. He says if you're outside when a thunder storm is brewing, don't stand under a tree. Come into the house—any house, but the bigger, the better. The chances are the lightning will slide harmlessly down over the corner where the water is pouring down, and if you're in the middle, you're safe.

Keep away from the stove, sink, fireplace, bathtub, open doorway. If a husband thinks windows should stay open, he's wrong. Shut them while the fireworks are on, then open for the sweet, cool, clear air after they are over. A current of wet air is a conductor.

If afraid, hiding in the closet doesn't help. Get a good book, or start a useful task and try to put full attention on book or task, leaving as little as possible for the source of fear. If you see the lightning flash and hear the thunder crash, you are not hit. You may not enjoy waiting for the next one, but that one has passed by.

The trick is to adapt yourself to the normal manifestation of natural forces—and to enjoy them.

Prodigal Spending Should Stop

ONE of the most dangerous signs of the time is the appalling public indifference to debt and government spending.

All favor the expenditure of as many billions as defense requires. But a public attitude which permits unnecessary non-defense spending to go on unchecked, and which does not demand of governmental leaders a workable plan for eventually paying the bill, is a threat to our very existence as a democratic nation. Thoughtless prodigality is the surest road to disaster for an individual, a business, or a nation.

DECIDING FUTURE CUSTODY OF THE CHILD

Falla Went Along

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

AS A POLITICIAN, I'm a good potato peeler. So don't ask me for any opinions on that Roosevelt-Churchill conference. I haven't any. But something happened in connection with that conference which gave me a heap of comfort . . . and confidence in our American future.

FALLA WENT ALONG.

Who's Falla? For Pete's sake, don't tell me there's anyone in the United States who doesn't know about Falla! Remember the Inauguration? Remember the crowds and the parade . . . the guns and soldiers, tanks and planes . . . the gold stars, bugles and drums . . . the Secret Service Guard circling, ten-deep around the Boss? And the Small, Black Outfit who defied them all by scooting around their pompous shins, jumping into the open car and sitting there, glowering, until Mister F. D. R. himself, put him out. This despite the most urgent and appealing paw-pattings and nose lappings.

Well, that small, Black Outfit was Falla, the president's pup. The busiest little Neutral who ever did his duty as he saw it, regardless of the possible danger to his own, small self. Which, I'm thinking, demonstrates the American way of life as perfectly as anything I've ever seen.

Of course, he didn't get by with it. Wherefore I'm urgently hoping he took you to task, F. D. R., for two-timing a friend. But evidently, between dates, you came to an understanding, for when the official photographs were released, there was Falla, sitting in front of a properly disciplined Boss, running the show. Which means a lot more than may appear on the surface.

Pups can't read the Constitution. Or appreciate International Relationships. And, in our stupidity, we pity their "ignorance." But we are the ones to be pitied. For a pup knows—and practices—the only things that make life worth while for either a man or a dog. When it comes to love and loyalty, the shabbiest small mongrel humbles us all. And the life is poor, indeed, that doesn't cherish the memory of grubby paws . . . eager, worshipping eyes . . . a welcoming bark.

So Falla brought to that meeting something which the most famous statesman or general could not contribute. He brought the Common Touch—that warming reminder of plain people and plain things which is so often overlooked when Great Doings are under way. For his brief moment he was no longer just a pup. Unwittingly, he became the representative of millions of weary, bewildered human beings . . . Minister without portfolio to a heartbroken world.

Out there on a sea filled with prowling hell . . . beneath a sky loaded with death . . . surrounded by all the pompous trappings and traditions of material power . . . little Falla brought men back again to the old, simple hungers and dreams. Touching him, feeling the friendly nuzzle of his nose in their hands, they saw the firelight waiting beyond the cannon and the planes—the face of a wife or mother with babies crowding around, the good fields heaped with harvest, turning purple in the dusk.

Watching his adoring loyalty to his human god, they remembered those things which a half-pint tail wagger may know, and express, as well as any gold-branded king. They remembered the Faith and Friendliness they'd been taught as children . . . the Tenderness and Tolerance for other pups or people who have made mistakes . . . the Love and Loyalty to ends which may show no profit . . . the Courage, Square-Dealing and Respect between man and man.

A little pup only two hands high, if that. Smaller than all the regal legs who stalked the deck, he padded his humble way—and will have no place in history. Yet I'm thinking that Fallas' trail heads straight to an Eden we humans had almost lost . . . to a simplicity that's more powerful, more enduring and healing than all our scheming wiles.

Diphtheria Can Be Guarded Against

—By DR. CLENDENING

THE conquest of diphtheria is one of the greatest triumphs in modern medicine. It has been brought about, first, by a strictly scientific knowledge of the way diphtheria is spread, of the way immunity is acquired against it, by the perfection of a completely satisfactory method of creating immunity in any individual, and by the persistent efforts of state and city boards of health all over the country in insisting on regular immunization of school children against diphtheria.

In spite of this, of course, there are a number of stubborn and unconvinced people who are opposed to having their children protected against diphtheria. One by one they are being persuaded but the effort in persuasion must continue, as must immunization of children who are entering school for the first time continue.

Yearly Fight.

Diphtheria must be fought back each year. In the mysterious way which contagious diseases have, it continues to exist and continues to be a menace. The immunity of a population to diphtheria is a variable factor. It changes from place to place and from generation to generation. The degree of natural immunity in any community is dependent on the number of avirulent and virulent carriers, on the type of organism present, on the number of cases of diphtheria and on the density and age of the population.

In other days we were dependent for immunity to diphtheria on the protection of natural immunity. Children playing under crowded conditions would pick up germs from each other, some of them avirulent, and almost dead diphtheria bacilli, which they were able to overcome. In the process of overcoming these, the body developed a natural resistance to diphtheria, but in this process, there were dangers of picking up virulent organisms and coming down with an active case.

The mortality of diphtheria in those days was frightful. It was the most dangerous of childhood diseases. The death rate varied from 85 to 20 per hundred thousand population. At present many cities report no deaths per year. The highest death rate in any one city in recent years was 7 per hundred thousand. The death rate varies exactly in proportion to the vigilance and universality of immunization.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Irish Angered By U. S. Failure To Sell Them Ships as Promised

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—During the past few days, a hectic diplomatic battle has raged backstage over the question of selling two U. S. ships to Ireland. During this battle the Irish, with complete and charming candor, went to the point of calling members of the maritime commission "scoundrels."

It all came about as a result of President Roosevelt's promise to the Irish last spring that they could have two U. S. merchant ships. The president wanted to play up to the Irish in order to get naval bases from them later.

But after promising the two ships, it fell to the maritime commission to deliver them and the commission found the only way an American ship can be sold privately is under the Lend-Lease Act. Otherwise the law requires that a ship to be sold at public auction. This would make the Irish bid against everyone else. Ships are at a premium these days and prices run around $100 to $125 a ton, in contrast to the $75 price the Irish were to pay.

When Joseph Desmond Brennan, Irish vice-consul in New York, came the other day to see the maritime commission, he was horrified to learn that Ireland's two ships were to be sold under the Lend-Lease Act.

"Lend-Lease!" exclaimed Consul Brennan. "We'll have none of it! The president of the United States has promised us these ships, and we're ready to take them—but not under Lend-Lease. Never!"

"Why not?" asked one of the maritime commissioners.

"Lend-Lease carries a political connotation," he explained. "You're giving ships to England because you have a virtual alliance with her. You are getting something in return. And you are expecting something from us if you give us ships under Lend-Lease."

Invasion of Ireland?

CONSUL BRENNAN was assured that the United States expected nothing from Ireland unless she was invaded by Germany.

"And that's not our only danger of invasion," he shot back, inferring that his government even cast a suspicious eye on the United States.

"But enough of this argument," he continued in his delightful Irish brogue. "I care not one whit for your legal 'sillygisms'. The president of the United States has given us those ships and we want them."

However, all the crack lawyers of the maritime commission could not find a way by which the ships could be sold privately—and at a low cost—except under Lend-Lease. Finally Ray Atherton, head of the state department's European division, anxious to help the Irish, proposed to the maritime commission that it "rig" a sale.

"That," replied the maritime commission, "would give us the same kind of juicy publicity as if Secretary Morganthau rigged the sale of a gold brick."

Army Takes Ships.

BUT in the interim, the army needed lumber badly in Panama and, without the maritime commission fully realizing what was happening, the two ships reserved for Ireland, the West Henitite and the Naris, lying at Galveston, were loaded up with lumber.

At this Irish Minister Robert Brennan, stepped into the picture. Mr. Brennan's very real popularity in Washington is due in part to his geniality. But there was absolutely no trace of geniality in his voice when he protested to the state department. "Double-crossers" was what he called the maritime commission.

By this time one ship was loaded and ready to sail. Meanwhile the army was squawking for lumber. But the maritime commission finally countermanded the sailing order, gave the Irish time to decide whether they would take the ships under the Lend-Lease Act.

Consul Brennan, calling at the maritime commission, agreed to give an answer this week. Then as he was going out the door, he walked ten paces down the hall, suddenly stopped, came back and hissed:

"You scoundrels!"

The Latins gathered around the vice-president's desk and all was ready for the shooting, when suddenly Wallace jumped up, dashed to one side, whipped a comb from his pocket and tried to bring order to his unruly hair.

The Latins were amused and delighted. The effort was of no avail. His hair remained unruly. But, said the Latin visitors, "El se senito mejor" (He felt better).

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There is, as all America knows, a shortage of silk stockings. The price of cheese is soaring, lamb chops are out of sight and, from the way things look, at least along the eastern seaboard, gas may soon be doled out to motorists in half-pint bottles.

But the worst is yet to come. For here comes Billy Rose, who knows whereof he speaks, with the dire tidings that there aren't enough pretty girls to go around.

Mr. Rose, of course, is talking purely from a professional point of view. When he says that there's a dearth of lovely lassies, he means that theatrical producers can't find a sufficient number of comely chorines with whom to embellish their musical shows.

"It wouldn't surprise me," says Billy, with a scowl, "if the situation got so bad that we'd have to adopt some sort of rationing system. Seriously, there IS a shortage."

TIME was, and not so very long ago, Billy recalls, when all one had to do to recruit a line of charmers for a revue, musical comedy or night club entertainment, was to issue a "chorus call"—insert an ad in the papers and send notices to the amusement editors — and the beauties came trooping to your stage door.

"In the spring of last year," Billy reports, "when I had a call at Madison Square Garden for my Aquacade at the World's Fair, 15,000 young people showed up. More than 10,000 were girls, and naturally we had no trouble whatever in getting together a very decorative dancing and swimming chorus. This spring, when I started producing the current show at my Diamond Horseshoe, I had another call, and between 400 and 500 girls answered the ads.

"But a few weeks ago, I had to replace a couple of girls who were getting married. I issued a call, and not quite 80 girls responded. And I had a dickens of a time picking out two attractive youngsters."

EVERY producer of musical shows, says Mr. Rose, is in the same predicament. Day after day, ads appear for chorus girls needed for the new fall shows, but very few lovely damsels show up at the calls. In order to protect his group of hand-picked honeys at the Horseshoe from being raided by other producers, Billy recently placed all his girls under run-of-the-play contracts. Until then, the impresario and his chorus had got along nicely with the conventional two weeks' arrangement.

"What are the causes of this strange and unprecedented shortage? Billy believes that the defense industries have something to do with it. The plants have offices; the offices need receptionists, secretaries, stenographers. A number of pretty girls have become airplane hostesses and a good many real "lookers" these days prefer modeling to show business.

"A pretty girl is still like a melody, but getting her today is more like a pain in the neck."

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

A Farmer's Diary

Hank Couldn't Loaf

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I STOOD at an intersection of two country roads, talking with a farmer friend while his plow team rested. A long funeral procession came by. We watched it stop at an old family burying ground on the slope a half mile off, where two aged pines and a massive, spreading white oak shaded the plot within the black iron palings.

"That's Hank Smith's funeral," the farmer said. "He was one of the best men in the county—but he didn't know how to retire."

"Was he an old man?"

"Seventy-five last week. He worked hard all his life and was comfortably fixed. He lived around here until three years ago, and everybody liked him. Did you notice that Model A at the tail end of the procession? The driver put up his hand to me, and the woman in back had been crying."

"Yes, I noticed. Were they Smith's relatives, perhaps?"

No—just tenants of the old man's. He's done 'em many a good turn—as he has me, too. Durned if I didn't feel a little too sad, myself! Hank told me once he reckoned it was more fun to give things away, sometimes, than to keep 'em, and he intended to enjoy himself all he decently could while he lived.

"His wife got overdone—that's why they moved 12 miles to town, three years ago. They bought a fine place, all modern, with nothing for Henry to do but turn a thermostat and read the papers and loaf. His wife soon got better, but after everything seemed to be all right, Hank told me privately that 'twasn't as good as it looked. He used to drive out past here and watch his neighbors work and you just knew he was homesick for the feel of the harness, and the smell of the fresh dirt and the sound of the wind in the trees up by the old farmhouse. About that time he began to lose weight and look old.

"After a year, he was going about with a cane. The last 10 months they had to help him out on the porch and he sat there with a big coat on, most o' the time. Now he's dead — and they're bringin' him back home. Honest as I'm standin' here, I b'lieve he'd a lived to be ninety if he hadn't tried to change his whole way of life at that age . . . but I like him better that he couldn't loaf."

"I take it you don't plan to retire, yourself."

"That's where you're wrong! My son-in-law'll take over the management of my farm some o' these days. We're workin' together now. But I aim to stay right on the place, and I'm savin' up some of the things I've always wanted to do, to help me pass the time. I'm 63 this year. For quite a while I've been taperin' off on the heavy work and savin' myself. I'm readin' more and takin' more interest in politics—it's time us farmers did—and my wife and I keep gettin' improvements for the house, to save the woman. No reason, any more, for farmhouses to be uncomfortable or farm women to be drudges. Before I get to loafin' age, I'm goin' to learn how to do it—profitably. There's always a job for an old man around a farm."

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why Do We Call It "Grit?"

In the popular use of "grit" for courage, determination, invincible spirit, we take for granted without question the figurative significance of a term which intrinsically means sand or gravel.

Deriving from the Anglo-Saxon greot, the usage in the sense of the qualities of moral strength already noted is an Americanism that originated in the ntaure of the sandstones used for grindstones.

These sandstones were usually hard and coarse-grained, though some were of a finer texture than others, and the more grit they contained the better they were.

BRITISH TURN ISLE OF CYPRUS INTO FORTRESS

Defenseless Island Secretly Fortified In Face of Invasion Threat.

By KENNETH DOWNS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO—I am able to reveal today that the island of Cyprus, vital bastion in the eastern Mediterranean, is now another British island fortress, invasion of which would require a military undertaking of tremendous proportions.

Only two months ago many persons feared Cyprus was doomed to go the way of Crete. But with amazing speed and secrecy Cyprus has been transformed from an almost defenseless pastoral isle into a formidable armed camp during the brief period since the fall of Crete.

The great strategic importance of this achievement is indicated by the fact that three British middle east war leaders—red-haired, energetic Minister of State Oliver Lyttleton, Gen. Claude Auchinleck, commander of British forces in the middle east and Air Marshal Tedder—have just completed a flying three-day inspection of the island's defenses.

Your correspondent was privileged to accompany the party to and from the island and throughout their tour.

Naturally I am not at liberty to disclose details of what I saw but I can say that from the moment our big American-built transport plane touched its wheels on the runway of the newly constructed military airdrome where we secretly arrived to the time we took off from the hot dust of a swirling plateau amid an impressive guard of honor three days later, I constantly witnessed evidence of remarkable defense efforts which have been accomplished there.

It semed strange to encounter the men and machines of modern war in this idyllic place of tall pines, sunshine and centuries of romantic legends.

In the sparkling surf from which Aphrodite emerged according to mythology, I now saw British tommies splashing cheerfully.

In the hills and forests where the gods and goddesses of old lived, loved and fought were artfully concealed artillery batteries and the grim snouts of tanks.

Yet it wasn't so strange, for despite the long period of peace enjoyed in modern times, Cyprus has been a battlefield in wars of every period in recorded history.

The island has resounded to the tread of Phoenicians, Assyrians, Persians, Greeks and Romans. It became the first country with a Christian ruler after a visit by the apostle Paul in the year 45 A. D.

It has been ruled from Venice, it has been part of the Byzantine empire and has been overrun by the Turks.

I could not help wondering whether the ancestors of some British troops I saw there had been there to fight centuries ago when Richard the Lion Hearted and his crusaders attacked the island to avenge the ill-treatment to his bethrothed, Berengaria Navarre, by the tyrant Commenus.

The present strategic importance of the island can be seen by a glance at the map. It is the first bulwark against any invasion attempt on Syria, 40 miles away, and would be a most important base if the Germans lash out at Turkey, which the British pledged to aid in the event of aggression. The Turkish coast is 60 miles distant.

The commander-in-chief warmly welcomed Maj. Gen. Ramsden, commander of the island forces, for the progress he has made.

Both Auchinleck and Lyttleton paid tribute to the efforts of the Cypriots and their staunchness in the face of invasion danger.

They also praised the part the people of Cyprus have taken in defense work, which has been considerable, since most of the labor has been supplied by the local inhabitants.

An escort of Hurricane fighting planes accompanied us out to sea and then dipped farewell salutes as we continued on alone, flying very high over Syria, Palestine and Egypt.

MEASLES CASES IN SHARP DROP

Health Department Asserts Epidemic Ended; Only Four Cases Reported.

A definite end to Mansfield's 1941 measles epidemic was reported today by Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, with only four cases being recorded in August.

Wild pointed out that this was a drop of 18 below July's mark and considerably lower than the months of April, May and June when hundreds of cases were reported.

August's report brings the total number of measles cases for the city in 1941 to 2,796. This was much higher than in the previous epidemic years. The disease is believed to strike in three-year cycles. In 1938, only 1,274 were recorded while in 1936, reports were made of 766.

Last year only 25 measles cases were recorded and in 1939, only 26.

Twenty-five whooping cough cases were reported in August, five less than July, bringing the year's total to 231. Six scarlet fever cases were recorded, bringing the total to 43.

Only three typhoid cases have been treated, two in August and the other in July. No smallpox has been reported this year, Wild said.

Coiffures Are Getting High And Haughty

Reconstructing the hairdress is one of woman's favorite diversions. It is as much fun as spoofing the papa and making him mad. It is exciting and stimulating. Of course, it is not always a success at first, but one has to take a chance. The new hairdo may not qualify, but it leads to other ideas and in the end all is well.

There's a lot of talk about Grecian effects. Some of the oldsters remember when it was the cute caper to wear a hirsute bouquet of demountable curls upon the crown of the head, or on that spot that is midway between crown and nape. These curls, they tell us, were a good deal of a bother. You pinned the bunch on the counterpane of the bed, made the ringlets by brushing them over the finger. Just so often they were sent to the hairdresser for a dry cleaning. The curls then were wound on wooden rollers and baked in an oven. And we think we have coiffure troubles!

The new styles are still upswept and there are hundreds of variations. Every designer goes on a special spree whenever he or she touches a feminine head. Waves are wider than ever They fly upward from back, sides and front. Wherever there is sufficient material a roll is formed, or maybe a few sculptured curls are used to fill in.

These intricate and complicated designs may be all right for the lady of leisure who has plenty of spending change, can go to the beautytorium twice a week and get set. A busy woman with time chasing at her heels cannot consider them. There are modifications that are practical, and they will catch the feminine fancy without a doubt. That great changes are going on is apparent.

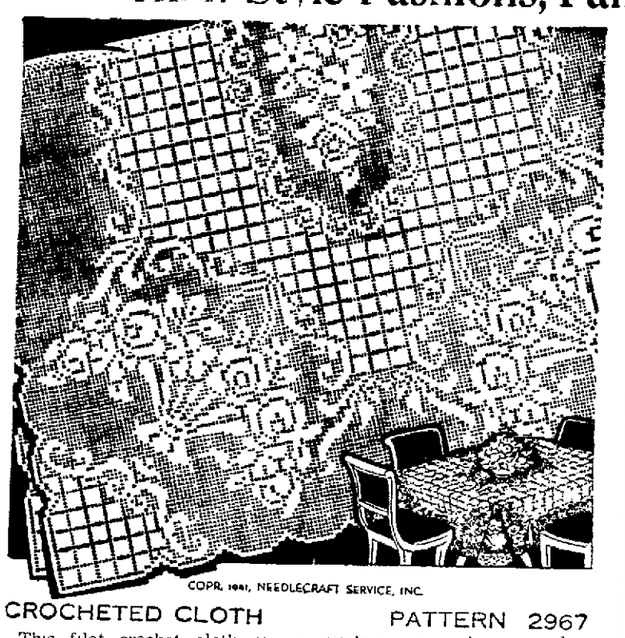

The pompadour can cut up all sorts of capers. We note, also, that some of the high steppers of fashion are pulling theirs down over the forehead. This style is called the inverted pompadour. You will find examples of it in the family photograph album, if you have such a funny thing around the house. It was not a pretty design. The bare forehead that gives a girl a freshly washed look has spoiled us for tresses pulled down over the face.

The upped effects can't be managed without anchors of one kind or another, so decorative combs are being offered and may make good. If grandma will let you go through her treasure chest you may find a lovely trifle of tortoise shell; women used to pay fabulous sums for them They're smart with bouffant evening robes, chum up with quaint fashions that are coming back with a whoop.

We doubt if the free and easy long bob with rolls above the forehead is going to retire. It is easy to arrange, it's chic and becoming to nearly all faces

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

FOR A minute or two, which seemed to stretch into hours, Mary closely scanned the flimsy sheets of the childish code of her young girlhood and Marion's childhood, which she had found in the old black notebook.

When, with her eyes still on the paper, I saw her hand go out gropingly over the table. I picked up Marion's letter and put it into her hand.

"Thank you," she said absently, and then for another minute she compared the letter and the flimsy sheets, finally laying both down and looking up at me with a puzzled expression, in which, however, I thought I detected a distinct gleam of hope.

"Suppose," she said slowly, "that while Marion was apparently absorbed in writing this letter—and of course she dwadled as much as she dared over it, so as to get all those things in—suppose she heard them drop some word that gave her an inkling of where they were taking her. What would she do in the short time she had?"

My answer to her question was prompt, and excited, for her manner told me she had discovered something.

"She would try to put in some word or words which would tell us as nearly as possible what she had overheard," I said.

"Click!" she answered. Then she took up her pencil and began to make marks on the blank paper in front of her, twisting it half around so I could see what she was doing

"You're drawing trees!" I exclaimed.

"Trying to," she said, 'also trying to get straight something which isn't written down here, but which we were supposed to remember.

"Oh!" she said, with sudden excitement. "Now I get it! That was the bet of which she speaks in the letter—the one she says I've won, only I don't know it. But she's spelled two words wrong just before that sentence, so suppose we take it that she means she's won the bet, don't you think so?"

"Yes, yes, go on!" I urged

"The bet was this," Mary went on. "I wagered that she couldn't remember the few things in the code which we didn't put down in the book She took the other end of the bet, and she's proved she was right, or at least I hope so."

"When we were sending notes to each other in code," she went on, "pictures of trees meant 'seashore'—why, Heaven only knows. I suppose I had some reason for it, but I have forgotten it. We also had the word 'wood' mean 'seashore' but to make it more complicated we always spelled it 'would.'

"So now, taking it that 'would' means 'seashore,' and seeing that sentence, 'you woodn't want me to make believe, wood you, Ron?' do you think she was trying to tell us where they were taking her?"

"Yes, I do, decidedly," I said, "but do you realize that both those words 'would' and 'wouldn't' are mispelled 'wood' and 'woodn't?'"

"That's what's puzzling me," Mary said dejectedly. "She couldn't use the word 'wood' any other way. Now, does she mean that they were taking her to the seashore?"

"Possibly," I said, trying hard to control my own excitement at the idea which had flashed upon me. "But might there not be another solution?"

"You've thought of something?" Mary said, sitting up alertly.

"Only this," I said. "The rule of this code is that misspelled words have opposite meanings. What is the opposite of seashore?"

Mary's face lightened.

"Mountains, of course," she said. "Oh! I do believe you've hit it!"

"We mustn't eliminate the seashore altogether," I said, "for you remember that gangster brought Marion down to Ticer's, and she talked to me from there. But my vote is for the mountains, because they provide easier hiding places than does the New England seashore. And I imagine, too, the gangsters want to keep her within striking distance of Carolyn."

"I cast my vote for the mountains also," she said, "but what a big order! The needle in the haystack has nothing on this."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 10.

Continued high-pressure tactics aimed at propects of magnitude is the forecast of today's stellar operations. Big deals enjoy the attention of those in high places or with capital for promoting constructive proposals. Excellent forces and faculties of practical scope are sustained by subtle, shrewd or clever strategies. If the latter are permitted to reign rather than wild, impulsive and tempestuous moves, there should be signal success. Excess or extravagance in private relations would also prove disastrous. New projects, managed with reserve, should get off to a very promising start.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of splendid achievement, with plans and projects of large importance progressing to a lively and energetic finish, if subjected to shrewd and subtle strategies rather than main strength or aggressive measures. This also applies to private and emotional situations. Be discreet particularly in the latter.

A child born on this day, while fiery, energetic and aggressive, will also have a fine, intellectual and artistic if not mystical outlook, and much ability of a creative nature. It may be extravagant, luxury-loving and easily imposed on.

"The Authority on Authorities"

QUITE A CONVENTION

ACCEPTED practice used to be that, when you had a three-card or longer honor sequence, and led the top of it the first time, you led the bottom of the sequence the next trip to let your partner know you had the card or cards in between. Leading the second highest would deny any lower ones in sequence. Many fine players use that differntly now, however, since nowadays they seldom lead the top of sequences shorter than three cards. Now the use of the second card on the second lead is a suit-preference call indicating a desire for the higher of the other to "side suits," and the lower card calls for the lower-ranking.

Sherman Stearns one of the game's greatest, led his heart Q against this, the K winning and the diamond 4 coming back to the Q and his A. He next led the heart 10—not the J—to tell John R Crawford, great young Philadelphia partner, that he was ready for a club return as distinguished from a spade. After Mr Crawford ruffed that with the diamond 9, he obeyed orders by leading his club 6 After the A won that, Mr Stearns led his heart J and a fourth heart, and it was ruffed by the diamond J, South having to discard a spade, since he could not over-ruff.

Thus the side scored five tricks against the contract of 3-Diamonds, setting it and earning the pair a splendid top score in the national championship event in which they were engaged.

Notice what would have happened if Mr. Crawford had returned a spade instead of a club to the fourth trick The declarer would have won it and would have led a diamond immediately to the dummy's K, dropping the J. Thereafter the declarer could have lost nothing but one more trick in hearts and one in clubs and would have made his contract.

CHAPTER XXVI

"Just like that!" Dru said furiously. "Oh, it's all very simple isn't it? Now that you've found a way to make some money, you don't have to marry me. You've made up your mind you're a big boy now and you can support yourself. Or maybe you've met a woman with more money than I've got."

That got under Hill's skin more than anything she could have said to him. He shot out at her angrily:

"I had no intention of being your gigolo. I'm hardly the type."

"Your wife supported you, didn't she?" Dru yelled. "With her music school While you played golf and ran around having a good time You can't deny that! Deny it! Deny it!"

Hill turned livid: "Don't forget my parents left an estate. I could afford to play for a few years on that I'm not trying to excuse myself for not having more ambition. But all that has changed I'm going to make up for it. Hillyer is going to work."

"In a pig's eye!" Dru yelled childishly. "I've a fancy picture of you working your fingers to the bone!"

Hill got up. "Dru," he said as patiently as he could, "Will you please go home and let me go to work? There's no use in discussing this thing any further. You know how I feel"

Dru whirled, and before Hill realized what she was about to do, she picked up an ash tray from the table and threw it at his head. It glanced off the side of his ear, merely grazing it Hill backed away, shouting at the frantic woman:

"Stop it, you little fool! Stop it!"

But Drusilla Bayne had no intention of stopping. Next she grabbed a vase from the table and it landed at his feet to crash into a hundred little pieces. For the next few minutes every thing was bedlam. Fortunately, Hill's apartment was sound-proof and no one outside heard the commotion.

Dru ran around the room like a maniac, throwing everything she could lay her hands on. Hill managed to get behind the hall door without serious mishap. He breathed easier, but his heart pounded furiously as Drusilla proceeded to systematically wreck the place.

Hill was afraid to try to stop her, because he did not want to be accused of beating her. There was no doubt if he laid a hand on her she would accuse him of trying to murder her in his apartment, for the benefit of the newspaper headlines.

When Drusilla could find nothing else to throw, she grabbed up her hat and coat and ran from the room swearing Hill would hear from her later. He came from behind the door, viewing the wreckage ruefully. Even the plans on his desk were torn to shreds.

A little fearfully Hill bought newspapers the next day fully expecting to find a wild story given out by Drusilla to the press. Up to late afternoon there was nothing.

But the morning tabloids carried pictures of the "Blond Bombshell" and the band leader, on the front pages. They had eloped to Virginia by airplane, to be married. Hill was weak with relief as he realized how easily he had escaped from Drusilla Bayne. She had married Jock to save her face, which was all very fortunate for Hill.

It didn't matter that his apartment was a shambles. The damaged things were all his, and he could well afford to pay that price for his release. Whistling almost cheerfully Hill packed up and moved across the street from April's apartment in Douglaston where he could be near Kenny.

Spring was in the air the day, a few weeks later, when April was brought back home. Dr. Malcolm had decided it was best to keep the truth from her, and she had not been told the doctors felt that there was no hope that she would ever walk again.

Cherry and Gay were with April in the ambulance when it drove up in front of the apartment Hill watched from his room across the street, as two men and a white capped nurse took the stretcher from the ambulance. Finally he turned away because the sight was too much for him to bear.

Hyacinthe stood in the doorway, wiping her tears with the big white apron she always wore. Kenny ran down the steps yelling joyfully:

"Mommy, Mommy!" Oh, here comes my Mommy!"

April was wrapped in blankets, so that even her white drawn face could scarcely be seen.

"Oh, hurry!" she urged the men who carried the stretcher. "I can't wait! Kenny darling, Mommy will kiss you in just a little minute."

Cherry and Gay were both weeping tears mixed with both joy and grief. The homecoming was clouded with the tragic thought that some day April must know she would be chained to a wheel chair.

They carried April's stretcher into the bedroom and Miss Sayers, the nurse, supervised the two men who lifted her gently and placed her in one of the soft twin beds in her own blue and gold room.

"Oh," April sighed, "this is heavenly. I'd forgotten how comfortable my own bed could be."

Kenny climbed up and kissed his mother and she held him close and April's tears dampened his rugged little face. Hyacinthe kissed her next on the cheek and the old colored woman's round face was comical in its mixed picture of happiness and sorrow.

"Dis is de happnes' day of mah whole life," Hyacinthe cried. "De lawd done answered mah prayers an' brought mah baby home to her ole mammy. Bless de lawd!"

Miss Sayers decided her patient had had enough excitement for the time being and so she said firmly but kindly:

"I'm afraid you'll have to run along for a little while now and let Mrs. Hillyer rest."

Kenny's chin quivered. "Me—too nurse? I'm her little boy."

Miss Sayers smiled at Kenny gently, relenting.

"If you are a very quiet boy, I'll let you sit beside your mommy's bed and hold her hand a little while Maybe you can put her to sleep But you mustn't talk."

Kenny grinned happily: "Oh, thank you. I'll be very quiet. I'll be your 'sistant, won't I?"

Miss Sayers smiled: "You certainly will. You can help me a lot. Now you sit here."

April gave him her hand, closing her eyes tightly.

"I know Mommy can rest now, darling, with you here to take care of her. We'll talk about lots of things later. I've so many things to ask you."

"Sh-h, quiet Mommy," Kenny whispered. "You mustn't talk. Sh-h, close your eyes."

Much to Miss Sayers' surprise the weary patient fell asleep with Kenny's hand in hers. From her breathing, and the look of contentment on her face, Miss Sayers knew it was the most restful nap April had enjoyed since her accident. Even though she slept for an hour, Kenny refused to budge from her side. His small arm was numb from the one position when April opened her eyes.

"Why, darling!" she said surprised, "have I really been asleep?"

"For six or seven hours," Kenny stood up, stretching.

"He wouldn't get up," Miss Sayers smiled. "You'd better run along and take the kinks out of your legs and arms, honey," the nurse advised. "Isn't it about your supper time?"

Kenny ran from the room with alacrity. Having had quite enough of sitting in one spot. Even if it was beside his beloved mother's bed.

Gay came in a little later.

GEN. JOHNSON: Faces Threat of Death to Expose Spies

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—There is a reasonable explanation of the confusion arising out of press reports of B. M. Baruch's White House statement, following luncheon with the president, that the new war industries board (SPAB) is only a "faltering step" and the president's later statement to the effect that this view did not reflect the discussion at luncheon. The explanation could be that the discussion at luncheon didn't explore details of the new organization at all.

Johnson

This would seem rather strange in view of the fact that much of the organization did follow Mr. Baruch's idea and specific plan.

As this column has frequently pointed out, the plan and chart are not half so important as the men and principles which are to govern action. Mr. Baruch himself has said, as has been suggested here also, that Donald Nelson himself could save the situation if he is given proper authority and support and, it must be added, if he has the stuff on the ball as an administrator and leader.

Has he? His reputation in industry and in Sears Roebuck, whence he came, was that, as a second man, he was tops, but that, as a team leader, he left a good deal to be desired. Maybe he has outgrown that. Good men have a way of rising to greater responsibilities to uncover unsuspected strength.

But, right off the bat, one thing is clear. He can't possibly become the spark-plug and coordinator of that mighty effort and at the same time run the detail of the priorities system.

The latter alone is a full time job for a giant. I'm not just guessing. I know because I saw this system working at full stress in World War 1. If that point is not recognized and that fault cured at once the whole scheme will collapse.

To those who urge appointment of the "best man in the country" as an absolute one-man czar of all defnse mobilization and who do not yet know that there was no such thing in the World War 1, I very embarrassing question is "what man?" I have asked and been asked that question frequently. I have never yet heard a satisfactory answer or even, I might add, any answer at all.

The addition of a small industries division, under Floyd Odlum to spread defense contracts to little fellows was a belated but excellent move. Yet this must be said with several qualifications to temper possible wide-spread disappointments. It will not speed defense production. It will delay it, increase its cost, reduce its quality and immobilize greater quantities of scarce materials.

It had to be done to help preserve the body of our business structure from destruction. But, even on that score, a word of caution is necessary. Defense production is largely in metals and metal working and in chemicals. I doubt if 20 per cent of the little fellows in manufacture can take any of it.

Unless the priorities policy is changed to withhold a reasonable amount of raw materials for the civilian population, all the rest, including the whole "little business" of retail distribution, are going to be completely folded up or seriously impaired. You can't do that and preserve civilian morale. The havoc, in immediate prospect, resulting from present unplanned and headlong priority policies has not been forseen, realized, or provided against by this administration.

Neither the Odlum division's organization nor its marching orders even remotely recognize this problem.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I'm always astonished at this season of the year by the number of new night clubs that are willing—nay, eager—to line up and face the Broadway firing squad. This autumn more than ever; so many entrepreneurs are plotting new merrydens that by Thanksgiving there won't be a loft or a cellar in midtown that isn't equipped with a dance band, a headwaiter, and a flock of those little table cards that tell you how much the cover charge is after 10 p. m. . . .

Kilgallen

The Eddie Cantor musical, "Banjo Eyes" is shaping up to look like one of the all-time hit shows of all time. Producer Al Lewis tells me the cast is lining up like this: Kenny Baker, June Havoc, Romo Vincent, Lionel Stander, Audrey Christie, the De-Marcos.

Production by Hussard Short, costumes by Irene Sharaff, ballet by David Lichine, sets by Harry Horner, music by Vernon Duke and John LaTouche. Sounds like nothing could go wrong with this one except rain on opening night.

The names in the Russian campaign have me fascinated as I try to figure out the battle moves. I think my favorite territory is Pinsk in the Prippat Marshes.

Horticulture in an apartment is fascinating, I think. I can get as worried over the state of the greens on the mantlepiece as any dowager with ten acres of Tuxedo Park landscaping. . . . Ana Sten tells me that the song "Yes, My Darling Daughter" has exactly the same tune as an ancient Ukrainian Cossack song she's known since childhood. . . . I love bubble baths. . . . And I hate turnips.

* * *

In the movies, when a star sits and fingers the piano I am always suspecting a canard. I guess it dates back to the days when film musicals were so popular and good voices were "dubbed" in for no voice at all, such as was the case of Buddy Clarke dubbing for Jack Haley. Anyway, the movies do it well; on the stage it never quite comes off, and it always makes me exceeding nervous when I know a behind-the-scenes artist is making the noises supposedly emanating from downstage center.

I am always worried for fear the star will get up from the piano and there will still be Chopin music coming forth in a pixie echo from backstags.

The movie method of dubbing never made me nervous, but it made me cynical. I can remember the time in cinema history when I automatically began to wonder whose voice they dubbed in for Bing Crosby.

* * *

I loathe nostalgic songs like "Sidewalks of New York" and "When You and I Were Young Maggie" and "Bicycle Built for Two." Drives me daffy when entertainers sing them. . . . Nothing makes me giggle more than hearing an old codger telling a draftee: "Believe me, if I were 20 years younger and had no responsibilities, I'd enlist tomorrow." Ho, hum! . . . Where's Jimmy Durante? . . . I liked two of the male replacements in "Lady In The Dark"; didn't like the other two. You guess which. . . . I'd like to in an apartment on the 80th floor of the Empire State building, where I could look down on the town.

DECIDE TODAY ON PIPELINE CONSTRUCTION

Defense Agency To Rule on Steel For $70,000,000 Cross-Country Project.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A definite decision was looked for today on whether the defense program can spare sufficient steel for a 2,000-mile Texas-to-New York pipeline which would help solve the east's petroleum transportation problem.

The question was up to the new super-defense agency—the supply priorties and allocation board—which arranged to hold its second meeting late in the day.

Defense sources hinted that considerable weight would be attached to the claim of Emory S. Land, maritime commission chairman, that allocation of 450,000 to 700,000 tons of steel for the pipeline construction would seriously hamper the emergency ship building program.

If the board refuses steel for the pipeline—a $70,000,000 undertaking—the meeting is expected to endorse one or more substitute plans for easing the oil problem.

One recommendation, offered by Land, is the construction of some 200 reinforced concrete barges. These could be built in about three months, it was estimated, would require probably not more than 12,000 tons of steel, and could be towed by tugs or oil-laden tankers on their regular runs.

Another proposal is the use of idle railroad tank car capacity, which J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, has fixed at 20,000 unused cars.

A third possibility is a program for rationing gasoline and fuel oil supplies in the east.

The SPAB was expected to review the entire petroleum problem, with particular emphasis on the effect of the proposed pipeline on the nation's steel supply. The line would require the same type of plates used in the building of ships, and orders for steel plate in the tremendous volume required would tie up a number of mills which otherwise might be supplying other defense needs, including tanks.

Only one board member has voiced a public opinion on the question, Price Administrator Leon Henderson. He said last week that he would reserve judgment but added, "you can't sink a pipeline."

MRS. ROOSEVELT BURIED TODAY

Hold Last Rites In Library of Hyde Park Home For President's Mother.

(By Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N.Y.—The somber comforting words of the Episcopal burial service sound a solemn requiem today for Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the president.

On a final, familiar journey, the chief executive accompanies her down the maple-shaded driveway of the estate to which she came as a bride 61 years ago and along the usually bustling Albany Post road to weather St. James church, where they had worshiped together so many times.

In the church yard behind the gray, stone edifice, a final resting place awaited her among other Roosevelts who had preceded her in death.

With her distinguished son beside her bed, Mrs. Roosevelt died Sunday at the family home after a circulatory collapse brought on by her advanced age. She was nearly 87.

The private funeral services were scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. in the library of the spacious Roosevelt home.

The president's mother lay in a mahogany casket in a room whose long rows of books, massive, well-used furniture, and huge fireplace spoke more of comfort than of elegance. It has been both living-room and library, and in it the grandchildren romped gayly in years gone by.

RESUME WORK

Employes at Mine Hit By Fire Return to Jobs Tonight.

STEUBENVILLE —(INS)—Work was to be resumed tonight in the Dorothy mine of the Youghiogheny and Ohio coal company where several hundred miners were forced to flee from fire yesterday.

Mine rescue trucks from Bellaire and Adena were called to the scene and helped bring the blaze under control. It is believed the fire may have been started by sparks from the mine trolley wires.

POLICE SET SEPT. 29 AS DATE FOR ANNUAL DANCE; BOOK BAND

Red Nichols and his Musical Pennies, radio dance band, will provide music for dancing at the eighth annual Mansfield Police ball to be held at the Coliseum on Monday, Sept. 29.

Patrolman E. D. Mitchell, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, announced today that the red-headed trumpet player and his nationally-known band had been signed for the 1941 dance.

Tickets will go on sale the latter part of this week and will sell for $2 per couple. Sales will be made by the patrolmen and through an office being set up in the Mohican building. Telephone calls for tickets may be made to 1631-6.

Mitchell said that Mansfield merchants would be contacted by telephone. Proceeds from the ball will be used by the Mansfield Police Recreation club, which sponsors the dance, to obtain ammunition for police target practice and to support the "Safetytown" program.

Asphalt aprons were constructed at Prospect and Newman school playgrounds this year, under the club's sponsorship, to provide better conditions for Safetytown training. The club plans to extend the program to other playsites next year, according to Mitchell.

Serving on the committee with Mitchell will be Paul Martin, secretary-treasurer, E C Fuller, O. D. Fair and Lieut. Paul Whipp.

MORE ARRESTS

Highway Patrol Nabs 2 More on Speeding Charges.

Two more motorists were arrested on speeding charges last night as the state highway patrol continued to bear down on the speed limit set in the new state traffic code which went into effect Friday.

Joseph R. Tyrell, Akron, and George J. Kidd, Cleveland, paid $10 and costs each today after pleading guilty to the speeding charges before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court.

Both men were arrested on U. S Route 42 near the city. The new traffic code set the speeding limit on open highways at 50 miles per hour.

GETS ADVANCE

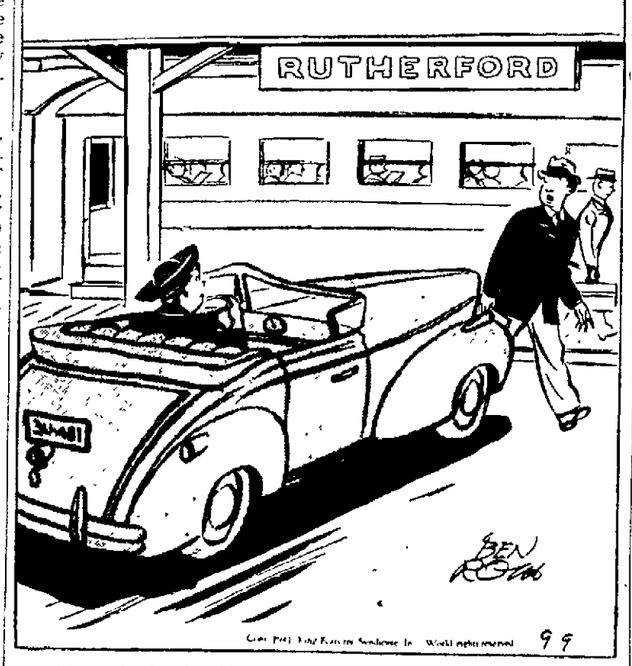

County Dips Into Tax Funds For $50,000; Balance Drops.

Richland county reached into the second-half real estate tax collection today for a $50,000 advance to meet its operating expenses and pay relief bills for the month.

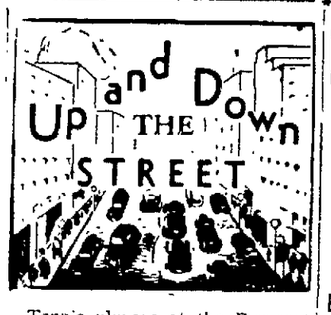

County commissioners authorized the advance settlement after the general fund balance dropped below $5,000. The $50,000 advance includes $5,000 for relief expenditures.

Allocation of nearly $650,000 in property taxes for the final half of the year will begin in a few days, but it will require considerable time to complete the settlement, county officials said.

Laff-a-Day

"Your husband said to meet him at the next station, Mrs. Robertson. The boys have him hooked for $3 in the pinochle game."

Tennis players at the Prospect park court had better get prepared for higher bounce and greater wear on their tennis balls. The park association plans to construct a concrete playing court for next year to replace the sod one used at present. A metal net is also included in the plans for next year. Association members found that the excessive wear and tear on the cord nets was expensive.

"I think maybe I can help you out," said Jack Berger to Jack Berger. "Let's see what we can do about this." This is merely a picture of a man talking to himself about the subject he knows best, and in broad daylight.

COLLECT $1,200

Mansfield Theaters Add Sum To County's U. S. O. Quota.

Richland county's U. S. O. fund was increased by approximately $1,200 by collections taken in Mansfield's five motion picture theaters last week, according to figures submitted today by the management.

The fund will be added to the $9,267 already raised in the county U. S. O. drive the past summer. The money will be sent to national U. S. O. headquarters.

Staged by motion picture theaters throughout the country the U. S. O. week drive is expected to bring the national quota of $10,765,000 well over its mark. Thomas E. Dewey, national chairman, has predicted that the total will reach $12,000,000.

NATURALIZED CITIZEN AIDS IN ROUND-UP

Ex-German Defies Gestapo To Do Counter-Espionage For Adopted Country.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (U.P) — A clandestine short-wave radio station through which the federal bureau of investigation sent the German Gestapo false messages about the United States defense program wfas described today at trial of 16 persons accused of being Nazi spies.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — The loyalty of a naturalized American citizen in the face of threats from police of his native Germany was credited today with exposing a Nazi spy ring, of which 16 suspected members are on trial in federal court.

William G. Sebold, first important government witness, was introduced by United States Attorney Harold M. Kennedy as a "counter-espionage agent." His story was as follows:

After the World war, in which he fought for Germany, Sebold migrated to the United States, became a citizen and worked in the Consolidated Aircraft company at San Diego, Calif. In the summer of 1939 he returned to Germany for a visit. Before he could disembark from his ship at Hamburg two men visited him and inquired about his work at the American airplane plant. He told them to "go find out for yourselves."

At his family home in the ruhr district, he received communications from a "Dr. Gassner," who identified himself as a Gestapo agent and asked Sebold to co-operate with Nazi spies in America. When he showed reluctance, Dr. Gassner threatened him and showed him the "funeral clothes" in which he would be dressed. Sebold then went to the United States consul at Cologne and told him what had happened.

Pretending to fall in with Gassner's plans, Sebold went to Hamburg and took the Gestapo's training course for spies. It included code work, radio and telegraphy. Popular books were the keys to the codes—his key was Rachel Fields' "All This and Heaven Too"—and the decoding was done by reading pre-arranged pages in a pre-arranged manner, depending on radio messages.

Then, in January, 1940, Sebold returned to the United States with $1,000 in Gestapo money, half of which he gave to one Everett Roeder, and the rest of which went for radio and photographic equipment. His real work, however, was counter-espionage for the United States.

In opening the trial, Kennedy charged that details of the Norden bomb-sight, once this country's most guarded military "secret," had been given to Germany in 1938 by Herman Lang, former inspector in the Carl Norden plant, one of the 17 defendants. He said Lang took the information to Germany. "We will prove that on deposit right now in Germany for Lang are 10,000 marks for his work here," Kennedy said.

Thirty-three alleged members of the spy ring were rounded up last July. Seventeen have pleaded guilty. All are liable to 22 years imprisonment if convicted of the charges of espionage and failure to register as agents of a foreign (German) government.

Take Lukens Jury To The Scene Of Easter Day Crime

AKRON—(INS)—Jurors sitting at the trial of Albert B. Lukens, 58-year-old church janitor who is accused of killing pretty Ruth Zwicker and destroying her body in a furnace, today had a good look at the setting of the alleged slaying scene.

The jury — nine men and three women—visited North Hill Methodist church yesterday before the trial opened and viewed the piano where the 24-year-old musician sat, when, Lukens said, she hit her head on a sharp edge while resisting his advances. The furnace into which Lukens is said to have admitted stuffing the body was also viewed.

Edward Brumbaugh, a greenhouse employe, testified that the church was "extremely hot" when he brought flowers to the church on Easter morning, the day Lukens was alleged to have stuffed the body into the furnace.

The football season for Mansfield opens Friday night at 8 o'clock under the lights of Stadium field when the Downtown Coaches gather for their first lesson in 1941 football rules.

Head Coach Ned Brooks, fearing that his staff of Main Street Mentors might not be up on the latest changes in the rules of gridiron conduct, has designated Coach Bill Keefe as instructor for the occasion.

Coach Paul Snyder will introduce members of the Mansfield Tyger squad to the assembled mentors, and then the Tygers will do their stuff in a regular scrimmage session.

The meeting isn't closed to members of the Downtown Coaches association. The entire gridiron public of Mansfield is invited to the session. And season tickets for the Tygers' home games will be on sale.

"We're mad," says Johnny Burns, manager of the Athletic Supplies softball team.

"We wanted to play our Commercial league championship game with the Tappan Stoves next Sunday afternoon when there'd be plenty of daylight around.

"But the Tappans insisted we play in the dark tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock. And if they think their dark and devious ways will win them a ball game they are sadly mistaken.

"Since they beat us 12 and 2 the other evening to tie up the championship series, they've been telling all around how bad they're going to beat us in this next game.

"They forget that we won the first game of the series and might win the next, even playing in the dark. We're mad!"

It seems that it's the Tappans' turn

Bill Reinka writes asking that I figure up his batting average for the time he performed with the Braves this summer, but adding that if it's too much trouble just forget it.

Well it's too much trouble because several box scores were lost between the Braves bus and this office.

But I can tell him something that should interest him. There's a deal on the fire which would make him and Harry Siegbert members of the Cincinnati Reds' chain gang. That should be better news than his batting average.

New Head Revamps Cadets

Same Ball Club, But Plan A Few Wins This Time.

By SID FEDER

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(AP)—Red Blaik came over from Dartmouth this season as Army's first civilian football coach in 30 years, and found out he's a doctor of psychology as well.

This is no honorary degree, mind you, but the plain fact that army football has been down for so long it has just about become a habit. And breaking that habit is Red's biggest job.

"It's like this," he pointed out today as he stood watching his 42-man squad cutting up their training chores. "We have about the same players, except for the ten or 11 we lost. They're playing in the same uniforms and eating the same food.

"But we have to take losers—fellows who've been down for a long time—and make winners out of 'em. We have to teach 'em about winning, as well as how to play football."

Just which is the tougher assignment, Red can't say. He had to give his warriors nothing but scrimmage during spring training, "because that's the only way to teach boys how to play football." This fall, there has been extensive work in fundamentals, even among the older hands, who should know all about how to know other guys down by this time.

Yet, Red and every one up here, from the mustachioed majors right down to the rawest Plebe, figures things could be worse. That doesn't mean Army's going to take things apart this fall. Red won't even predict he'll win half his games, and right now is worrying what to do about Virginia Military Institute in the cadets' second outing.

"It all depends how we get started," Red reckoned. "The boys have been down so long, that if they should lose the first couple, they'll think, 'this is where we came in.' But if we take the first few and get the idea, we might surprise some folks.

"As far as I'm concerned, we're playing them from week to week. We'll worry about each game as it comes along."

Red admits things aren't as bad here as they were at Dartmouth this time last fall. Yet, he has one of the smallest army squads in years to work with. And from the 1940 Plebe (freshman to you) outfit, came best wishes and not much else. Except for Halfback Ralph Hill and Henry Romanek, a tiny 192-pound guard, and one or two others, any resemblance the 1940 Plebes had to football players was purely accidental.

But balancing this misfortune are Jere Maupin, the Glendale (Calif.) speedster, and little Hank Mazur, from Lowell, Mass., a couple of holdover backs who can really prowl, pass and punt if given some slight cooperation.

Ted Michel, a 200-pounder out of St. Paul, has been converted nicely from tackle to blocking back. Then, there's always Johnny Hatch, the old reliable handyman of the ball-carriers, from Monterey, Calif.

Off spring training form, Blaik has picked a line averaging 190 pounds to front for these running units. Navy might be interested to hear one of the ends is Jim Kelleher, who once went to Annapolis.

For reserves, Red has probably eight or nine others who can step in and take a hand without throwing too much of a monkey wrench into the works.

With that set-up Red looks forward to a cozy nine-game schedule which opens gently enough with the citadel on Oct. 4 and then tears right into V. M. I., Yale, Columbia, Notre Dame, Harvard, Penn, West Virginia and Navy.

There are no high schools in that lineup, brother.

'Bama Backs To Be Good

Alabama Southeastern Team To Lay For.

(This is one of a series on college football prospects.)

TUSCALOOSA, Ala.—(AP)—The experts and rival coaches nominate Alabama as the team to beat in the Southeastern conference football race, but head man Frank (on the spot) Thomas wants it known "where they get that stuff."

"We appreciate the compliment," he says, "but we don't think much of their judgment, for these reasons:

* * *

"Alabama has only one tackle with game experience; only 14 letter winners in all; we play seven tough conference games, more than anybody else, and six of them come on successive Saturdays. If anybody goes through unbeaten, it will be one with an easy schedule."

Even the Tennessee folks will admit Thomas has line problems.

Joe Domnanovich, a promising sub last year, is the only letter center. John Wyhonic is a sturdy and standout guard. Only 221-pound George Hecht of the other candidates has seen varsity service, and Noah Langdale, Phi Beta Kappa tackle, is the only man of experience at that post.

A first stringer and two reserves at the tackles probably will come from Jake McAllister, Don Whitmire and Mitchell Olenski, three sophomores of ample displacement, but apt to suffer from greenness.

Those who see the 1941 season through rose-colored glasses concentrate on backs and ends to find reasons for dire predictions for the 'Bama opponents.

Holt Rast was all-conference end last season, and three other veterans are back to help man the terminals. Returning backs include Al Sabo, Dave Brown, Russ Craft, Billy Harrell, Paul Spencer and Jimmy Nelson, an all-Southeastern choice last year despite injuries now healed.

Sophomore backs are fast and plentiful. They include the Pine Bluff, Ark. twins, Ykob and Ray Hutson, brothers of Alabama's 1934 All-America end, Don Hutson. The draft may get them, however.

Mackey McCoy and Howard Hughes are two others who can run, pass and punt.

Even Thomas will admit Alabama will be very, very tough if the line comes up to the performance expected of the backs and ends.

Schedule problems center about the Tennessee and Georgia games, played on successive week-ends. After opening with Southwestern Louisiana here Sept. 27, the tide faces Mississippi State, Howard, Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky, Tulane, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt on successive Saturdays before ending with a night affair Nov. 28 at the University of Miami.

Birds' Pitching To Tell The Tale

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Manager Burt Shotton and his Columbus Red Birds expect to win the American Association playoff title the same way they won the pennant—with superior pitching.

Shotton will toss his ace right-hander, Lanky Johnny Grodzicki, against third-place Kansas City in the series opener tonight. Grodzicki, farmed out early in the season by the St. Louis Cardinals, won 19 and lost five games. His mound rival, George Barley, won 10 and lost 13.

Shotton has two more top-flighters ready for the firing line: Murry Dickson and Harry Brecheen. Dickson won 20 and lost 11. Brecheen won 16 and lost 6.

In the other half of the playoff at Louisville, the Colonels will face the fourth-place Minneapolis club.

MONTGOMERY COMES BACK TO BEAT KAPLAN

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Bob Montgomery has demonstrated again why he is considered Philadelphia's greatest lightweight since the days of Lew Tendler back in the early 1920's.

Battered around for nearly five rounds by Boston's Mike Kaplan before 12,000 at Shibe park last night, Montgomery came roaring from behind the sixth to floor Kaplan twice for no counts and followed through in the eighth and ninth to gain an unanimous 10-round decision.

A 6 to 5 favorite before the bout, Montgomery gave away 7½ pounds. He weighed 136 pounds to Kaplan's 143½.

Canton's cause suffered somewhat when Louie Lucier, ace of the Terriers mound staff and the league's top pitcher this season, was knocked unconscious by a thrown ball. It was uncertain whether he would be available for further service.

(Pinch-hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK—(The Special News Service)—Dope book on the National league race shows that in 25 years no club has clinched the pennant before Sept. 18, and in 1934 the Cards won the final day after being seven games behind on Sept. 6. . . . So that series out in St. Loo won't settle everything. . . . Eddie Arcaro comes up before the jockey club for sentence tomorrow and lots of folks are wondering what they'll decide really happened in the Hopeful. Eddie's story is that he and Johnny Longden tried to go through a hole just big enough for one hoss and Arcaro got there first. Another yarn is that he's ready to retire anyway and doesn't care if they do advance the date on him.

RUMOR MARKET.

If Gabby Hartnett believes everything he hears, he sure must be wondering where he'll land next. . . . Current stories have him (1) managing the Giants next year while Bill Terry moves to the front office, and (2) managing Jersey City. . . . The Phils haven't said anything, but the baseball writers think Doc Prothro is out and Hans Robert will be manager next year. . . . Louisville scribes aren't so sure that Johnny Pesky will be filling Joe Cronin's brogans next season. They think he is a year or two away. . . . Local report is that it cost the Dodgers Babe Phelps' full year's pay and a bonus to persuade him to retire so they could take on another man in his place.

Indians Inject New Blood

Open Eastern Tour With 5 New Ball Players.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The faltering Cleveland Indians opened their last eastern tour today with a hearty injection of young blood to bolster their stretch campaign.

Catcher Rollie Hemsley, Pitchers Mel Harder and Joe Heving, Outfielder Larry Rosenthal and Infielder Russ Peters were left at home, and in their places Manager Roger Peckinpaugh summoned from the club's Wilkes Barre, Pa., farm in the Eastern league five young players who were recalled last night.

The newcomers are Charles (Red) Embree, Wilkes Barre's leading pitcher; Catcher Jim Hegan, Outfielder Bob Frierson, and a pair of infielders, Jack Conway and Bob Lemon.

The tribe also sent Roy (Beau) Bell, utility outfielder whose talent as a pinch hitter slumped this season, to Wilkes Barre by the sale route.

As further evidence of the club's rebuilding process, it announced the purchase of 22-year-old Raymond Poat from Cedar Rapids of the Three-Eye league, to report after the Three-Eye playoffs. Last year Poat won 15 and lost four, this year he has a 16 to 6 record. Working in 202 innings, he allowed 176 hits, struck out 195 and gave 86 bases on balls.

Before the Indians' eastern trip concludes, they are expected to add Leslie Fleming, batting champion of the Southern Association, whose purchase from Nashville was announced Saturday. He is a first baseman, and has a .414 batting average.

For the first of the two games with the Athletics, Cleveland nominated Bob Feller, seeking his 23rd victory. His mound opponent will be Lester McCrabb or Bump Hadley.

League Climax Slated Tomorrow

Tied in the Commercial league playoff series after two games, the Athletic Supplies and the Tappans will meet tomorrow at 6 p. m. on the Prospect park diamond.

Each of the teams has won a half of the regular playing schedule and meet in this baseball series to pick the league champion.

The Supplies won the first game of the playoffs, but last Friday the Tappans came back to shellack the Supplies, 12-2, evening up the series.

Lucas Team Downs Marion Club

Manager Willard Darling's Lucas Merchants turned on their batting power last night to overpower Marion, 20-2, on their home grounds.

Leiter and G. Oswalt collected three for four hits apiece to lead the Lucas batting practice and Bob Grenlich clipped one over the fence with the bases loaded.

Stetson started as pitcher for Lucas and allowed three hits and no runs in the first six innings before Oswalt took over.

Kive was the only Marion player to get two hits.

Last time the two teams played, Lucas downed Marion, 77 and 9.

OHIO STATE DUCKETS FLOOD THE MAILS

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Ohio State university ticket office has mailed out 68,000 pieces of literature consisting of order blanks and prices for reserve seats to this season's games.

Sale of season books, closed Aug. 15, exceed 1940 by 15 per cent, and individual tickets were offered to customers Sept. 2.

The Buckeyes open their season Sept. 27 against Missouri in Columbus.

Typical Grid Man Listed

Likes Football, Eating and Sleeping Best.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The average football player at Ohio State university is a 190-pound six-footer, and he may be English, Irish, German, Jewish, Russian, Polish, Hungarian, or Italian.

"But altogether, check and double check, he is an American," says the university's news bureau.

Here is the rest of the bureau's description of the average gridiron man:

This year, he's a 20-year old sophomore in the college of education, and is about average in his scholastic work. He came to Ohio State from a fairly large high school in northeastern Ohio, where he was an outstanding high school football player. His family is neither rich or poor, but he has to earn part of the expenses of his college career, so he has a part-time job, at which he really works.

He spent the summer working in a steel mill, helping to earn part of those expenses, and incidentally keeping in trim for the football season.

He probably lives in a fraternity house, and in most respects is a typical college boy. . . . His favorite subjects of conversation are, in order, football, women, school, the draft, the condition of the world, and what-the-heck-is-it-all-about, anyway?

His favorite activities are, in order, football, eating, sleeping, dates, cards. At the training table he consumes thick steaks with an ease born of long practice.

All this, of course, is just a composite example. Actually, there is as much variation among football players as there is any other segment of the population. In size, they range from 5-foot-10, 157 pound Les Horvath, to Jim Daniell, who packs 219 pounds on his 6-foot-2 frame.

All classes are represented, and nearly every college in the university, from engineering to veterinary medicine. Players from Ohio and other states, from big schools and little schools, most of them were high school stars, but one or two never played high school football.

Bookies Favor Brooklyn

Bookmakers Nominate Dodgers Odds-on Favorites.

(By Associated Press)

Even the bookmakers finally have discovered Brooklyn is still in the National league.

For the first time since the pennant pot started to sizzle, the betting booths in Pa Knickerbocker's village have put the Brooklyns up as favorites to hang onto their three-game lead through the last western whirl they start today, and go on to the championship.

Convinced at last that maybe "The Bums" can finish in front of the St. Louis Cardinals, the bookies not only took the favorite's spot away from the Gas Housers, but skyrocketed the Dodgers into the choice's chair at odds-on in the wagering.

On the latest prices, you have to lay $3.50 to win 1. If you like Brooklyn. If you're still stringing along with old St. Loo, you can get $2.50 for each $1 you put up.

What finally convinced the betting boys was that the schedule the rest of the way definitely leans far over in Brooklyn's favor.

* * *

Looking beyond the action for the next couple of days (the Cards tangle with the Pathetic Phillies and the Brooklyns work on the Chicago Cubs) you come right up and say howdy to the hot Dodger-Cardinal series Thursday, Friday and Saturday in St. Louis. If things Thursday are still as they are today, the Missouri Mudcats must sweep that set in order to come charging back into the fight.

If they don't do that thing, the Cards can't look for any relief the rest of the way. For still in front of them are six contests with Chicago—and although the Cubs are the National league's sixth-place team, Billy Southworth's sluggers have just managed to break even in 16 games played to date with Jimmy Wilson's wallopers.

If St. Louis can't do any better than that in the last half-dozen starts, the flag is a cinch to wave over the Gowanus for the first time in 21 years. For, when the Brooklyns come home from the west, they have a nice vacation left—seven encounters with the Phillies.

FIRE BASEBALL MANAGER

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(AP)—Bennie Borgmann, manager of the Syracuse Chiefs of the International league this year, is looking for another job today. Clarence M. Schindler, president of the Chiefs, announced that Borgmann will not return next year because of the club's working agreement with the Cincinnati Reds "which may bring us one of several outstanding managerial candidates." Borgmann formerly managed the Portsmouth, O., Mid-Atlantic league team.

Jarrin' John Jousts For Pennies In Pro Football

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Jarring John Kimbrough, last year's terror of the gridiron and this year's horse opera hero, said today that he would play football this fall—for whoever would pay him the most money.

"I'm going to make every penny I can out of football," he said. "But just for one year. Then if it turns out that I'm a flop in the movies I'll go back to Texas. I took animal husbandry at Texas A. & M. and I expect I'll be able to make a living."

* * *

But it looks as if Jarring John might do all right in the movies. On location with a 20th-Century Fox unit making a "Lone Ranger" film, Kimbrough, all hands agreed, looks fine in cowboy clothes, is a good actor and photographs well. And he handles a six-gun as easily and naturally as he ever did a football.

Kimbrough finished his collegiate career last year practically the unanimous choice of the nation's pickers as All-American fullback.

He received $25,000 for signing with the New York Yankees of the American league. Now it appears that because of financial difficulties the Yankees may not play a league schedule but probably will go barnstorming.

* * *

"And if they do," Kimbrough said, "you can count me out. I want to play professional ball this year but not with an independent barnstorming outfit."

POPE WINS AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Pa. —(AP)— Freddie Pope, 118-pound Columbus, O., fighter, scored his 45th consecutive victory and his 22nd knockout when he flattened Bob Crosby, 125, Pittsburgh, in the fourth round of their scheduled six-rounder here last night. The fight was a semi-final to the Sammy Angott-Pete Galiano bout, which went to Angott, NBC lightweight champ, on a sixth-round knockout.

BUY SHORTSTOP

BOSTON —(INS)— The Boston Red Sox management today announced the purchase of John Pesky, outstanding shortstop of the Louisville club in the American Association. A great fielder, Pesky also is dangerous with the bat, having hit .321 during the past season At the same time, Boston announced the purchase of Eddie Pellagrini, another shortstop, from the San Diego nine of the Pacific Coast league.

GRIDDERS RETURN

DELAWARE—(AP)—Despite the loss of five potential first stringers through selective service and four lettermen via graduation, Coach George Gauthier had 14 lettermen available today for the Bishops' 1941 football schedule. Twenty-six other candidates report as drills were launched yesterday.

STATE CORRECTION

The Bellville - Madison high school football game incorrectly reported to be played at Bellville, Oct. 30, will be played at Madison high school, Al Fendrick, Madison coach, said today.

Francis Reagan, Penn's famous left halfback through last season, will play with the Eastern College All-Stars at New York on Sept. 3 in the annual benefit game against the New York Giants, although he has joined the marines. He doesn't expect to be called to duty until October.

Sal Bartolo, former star Boston amateur featherweight, who now lives in Brooklyn, is regarded as title timber. He has beaten several good ones and in a recent fight with the famous Chalky Wright a Madison Square Garden crowd lifted the roof with boos when Wright was given the decision.

Bucks Finish Pre-Practice

"Lean and Hungry" Boys Start Work Today.

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Ohio State university's 41-member football squad wound up pre-practice preliminaries today before getting down to hard work tomorrow.

* * *

Posing for photographers, which started yesterday afternoon, continued today as the players ironed kinks out of their muscles by jumping, crouching and sprinting.

The only football practice they got was working on the fierce expressions they're expected to use against opposing linemen.

But after today, there'll be no more posing—only hard work, said Coach Paul Brown, who'll inaugurate twice-a-day practice sessions at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. The double practice dose will continue until Oct. 2.

* * *

The players appeared in good physical condition, but there was quite a contrast in weight over last year's squad.

* * *

This year Brown, who likes his players "lean and hungry," will have only a few heavyweights. Most of the players will tip the scales between 185 and 195 pounds. Previously 200-pounders and up formed the bulk of the squad in weight and numbers.

* * *

Brown said it was undecided yet whether Paul Sarringhaus, one of the team's fastest men and an accurate passer, would wear glasses this season. Sarringhaus, from Hamilton, is one of Ohio State's outstanding Sophomore candidates.

* * *

A bad knee that gave Quarterback Jack Graf of Columbus plenty of trouble last year appeared in good shape and he's likely to win a starting berth.

NICKEL FOUND

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Discovery of an old nickel at the bottom of the Grand Canyon recalls the myth that the mile-deep gorge was created by a Scotchman digging for a lost nickel in a gopher hole.

Bob Evans, geology student at Arizona State Teachers college at Flagstaff, discovered the coin at the very bottom of the canyon during an exploration trip. He said the date was worn off the nickel so that it was impossible to say when the thrifty Scot dug the canyon.

INFLATION OF STAPLE PRICES BOOMS MARKET

Stock Leaders Show Signs of Rallying, But War News Proves Check Rein.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Leading stocks exhibited faint rallying signs in today's market. While the buoyant Aircrafts of yesterday settled down to a narrow range, major fractional advances were scored in most other departments. Dealings, fairly active at the opening, slackened near the second hour.

The inflation idea, seemingly inspired by rising staples, was responsible for some bidding in the share division, brokers said. It was suggested, though, that war skepticism remained as a handicap.

Among items studied in broadrooms were:

A federal reserve compilation which disclosed commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of member banks in 101 cities increased $39,000,000 for the week ended Sept. 3, the 19th consecutive weekly upturn in this barometer.

The commerce department report that, due to a noticeable recession in trade to Latin America, Asia and Africa, United States exports dropped from $385,000,000 in May to $330,000,000 in June.

They're Really Human In Army

By JOHN GROVER
(AP Feature Service Writer)

BREEZY HILL, La. — "This man's army" is a familiar phrase. Doesn't mean much. But when you turn it around it's vital. "This army's men" means something.

An army is more than black arrows on a battle map. It's men—your cousin Frank, Tony the grocery boy, Joe College himself.

What sort of men are in our new army? Take a cross-section of a typical company in a typical brigade in a typical division: Headquarters company, 62nd brigade, 31st division.

I go with this gang from Florida to Louisiana, eat with them, sleep with them, watch them 24 hours a day. Here's what a few of them are like.

Take Pvt. Glenn Lindrose, six-foot-three and so skinny he'd make a lath wear a girdle in comparison. Call him "Spider." He's 24, from Pahokee, Fla. He's the sort of handsome that makes talent scouts reach for a contract. "Spider" owned a $10,000-a-month service station until Mr. Whiskers called his number. He came without a squawk. Drives a command car now.

The 62nd's boss man is Brig. Gen. J. C. Hutchison. He's a famous Florida sportsman. Knows every deer and wild trukey by its first name. Smokes black, near-lethal cigars. You'd expect his junior officers to praise him, talking to a reporter. They do. What's more important, when you start shooting the breeze with his enlisted men over a beer, they rate the old man even higher.

Examples: the outfit was driving through the home town of one draftee. His mother and sister were out in the road. Had a cake for the kid. The column couldn't stop. They were disconsolate when the old man drove by. He got the story and delivered the cake personally.

They tell you how he often pitches horseshoes with enlisted men in camp. Don't get notions he's a softie, though. They say he skips one honest mistake with a correction. But make it twice and you wish you hadn't, but quickly.

"Plenty soldier," they say. You get the idea you'd probably be salvaging some of your favorite teeth if you questioned their estimate of the boss man.

The general's driver is Pvt. Charlie Farrior, a little blond from Prattville, Ala. Nicknamed "Bruiser" since a girl along the line thought he was too young for the army and should be in the Boy Scouts.

"Bruiser" is in love. Telephoned his girl three times and wrote her twice on the trip from Prattville to Camp Blanding. Once he talked $6.70 worth long distance and didn't have the money to pay it all. They kid him, but they say this little ex-furniture truck driver is tops when it comes to wheeling a car over blacked-out roads.

Pvt. Jim Castleberry was a U. of Alabama law student; Pvt Junius McCrocklin, a newspaper cartoonist; Pvt. Pete Smith, a farmer; Sgt. Ed Swann was going up fast in a Birmingham investment house; Pvt. Homer Kerlin, a Georgia cracker who enlisted "just for fun"—this man's army comes in all shapes and sizes, from all sorts of backgrounds.

The officers are just men, too. Maj. W. K. Miller is a 33-year-old Orlando architect, former city councilman. Left all that and a wife so pretty you don't believe it to go for a soldier when his guard unit was called up.

Jack Chilton — captain — was a Birmingham distillery agent. Left two children, a fine job, to wade in the mud. Capt. Harry M. Doster — "Pop" — edited a country weekly outside Montgomery. Pop served his time in the World war, could have resigned when the guard was called. Felt responsible for the kids he'd urged to enlist, so he came along.

That's a quick look at some men in a typical company. Multiply it by a million, guys from everywhere, and there's your new army.
